_____

Was in gettysburg, my wife and I were packing up, getting ready to leave, I still have the voice recoder running. My wife says thank you for something I did for her (you have to listen close, I amplified it, but my wife is still hard to hear) then another woman's voice is heard very clear. We did not hear it. And we were alone, no one else was with us. I will let you decide on what you think she says.
