my nephew seeing ghosts?

Posted by mandarose - 29 Apr 2011 19:52

---

so i need some opinions on my nephew seeing things. its started when he went on vacation & stayed in house known to be haunted. he would talk to no one and tell his mom "its a man or ghost" when asked who he was talking to.

now this is the thing i have an opinion on, we were downstairs and he looked at me and said "auntie who that?" i said who? and asked him if he saw someone there. when he said yes he looked frightened so i asked if it was a girl or boy. he said "monster" so i asked him to tell me what the monster looks like. he told me it was a wolf man....

any opinions on this?

==========

Re: my nephew seeing ghosts?

Posted by sixsense - 30 Apr 2011 03:12

Let us know how it goes. But it sounds to me now that he might be seeing something/someone. Kids see the spirits just lke they would see people.

==========

Re: my nephew seeing ghosts?

Posted by bulldogmom22 - 30 Apr 2011 03:32

Hope all works out, I have done all that I have suggested and it does work. Good luck.

==========

Re: my nephew seeing ghosts?

Posted by nikki_npi - 30 Apr 2011 04:04

Has he "seen" anyone since coming home from vacation?

Did he supposedly see this "wolf-man" around the time of sleep / naps / when really tired?

When your child says he is scared of something that might be a spirit, never enter into that negative state. Right away let him know that he is not to be scared. Bring as much positivity to the situation as you can, and since he is so young, you can probably distract him from it right away. Playing into anyone's negativity will only breed negativity and then..anything can happen.

If he has not seen this "wolf-man" or scary person since being home from vacation, I wouldn't worry about it, but I would probably advise against going there for vacation again. I would avoid asking him about it too unless he sees him again.

Maybe ask him if he sees anything else?

Also, because children are so impressionable....he could be just using an active imagination. Maybe he had a bad dream, and its manifesting in his waking mind, into the best way he knows how to describe.

Good luck, and keep it positive when around him!

~Nikki

==========