We would be interested we have quite a bit of equipment and are working on a DVD documentary. We would like some information about how you wish to pull off a live investigation as well as how rights to the video would work.

Dave,

You bring up some excellent questions. The tech. involved in a live feed varies greatly with the existing equipment which you or your group has. I personally am a tech. specialist so I can work closely with your group to make it happen. Obviously it will be done with minimal expense to anyone involved. After all we're not making any profit and neither are you I'm sure. It can be done as simple or as full as you wish, ranging from a Cell phone feed, all the way up to multiple feeds out of existing DVR gear, or even multiple feeds.

For individual phone feeds we use LiveCast as the conduit since software is available for various cell phones. For multiple direct feeds from DVR gear, we have the capability of doing our own streaming server. (We are also web hosts, so we have the capabilities to do anything like that)

When it comes to rights to materials, the investigating agency retains full rights to the materials. Since the feeds are live, there really isn't much materials to retain rights to however. But if anything is archived, and exportable the agency would retain rights to it. We're in no way looking to take anything away from anyone, but rather create a forum to bring your (any agency's) material more in the forefront of people's eyes and minds. And at the same time , give our members and the general public the ability to become part of the investigation. Which is really what so many of us are dying to do, but just don't have the resources or time to do.

I hope I was able to answer your question.

Looking forward to it. And remember to list your agency in our Haunts directory under the category "Paranormal Agencies"

As many of you probably already know, we had a successful weekend, many thanks to the crew of the ParaTravellers for allowing us to follow along as they conducted their investigation and met the nice folks at Bobby Mackey's and Waverly Hill Sanatorium in Kentucky.

Time now to plan the next live adventure. Here at Ghosts & Haunts we pride ourselves in being an independent organization and not tied to any particular group. As such we can work with many different paranormal agencies and private individuals to help them bring their investigations into the limelight. While at the same time giving all of our members access to the most up to date live information about ongoing investigations.

Any paranormal agencies, groups, or private paranormal investigators interested in teaming up with us, please let us know. We would be happy and honored to work together with you to make it possible.

Just a note to all the Paranormal Groups and Agencies out there. We're still looking for additional groups and agencies to host live investigations with. We will work closely with you and your existing equipment to make it happen.

Just contact us if interested.
