Sorry I missed chat

Hi folks, it's just after midnight, but wanted to give you all an update . Thanks very much for the thoughts tonight. I did appreciate it.

Saw the doc at the ER after I felt a snap in my neck tonight which caused numbness on the left side of my face and shot pins and needles as well as pain into my shoulder and arm as well as into my head.

I will be scheduling a follow up tomorrow with my PCP. It seems that my herniated disks in my neck have taken a new path. Consequently, I have pain meds and muscle relaxers to take so as to help me get some rest and not suffer so much with the pain until I could see the doc to get a referral to another neuro doc or bone doc...or both.

I missed you all alot tonight, but this was unavoidable and had to be dealt with.

Am going to close now as the meds they gave me at the hospital are starting to fully kick in and the backspace button is becoming my new best friend.

Hugs and love and have an awesome Monday everyone!

Leslie

Hope the docs sort this as quickly as possible for you, no one should have to live with pain. Best wishes toward that end, and good vibes are headed your way.

UT, I love all of you guys too (and gals) ~grins~ . Am going for a follow up appointment with my PCP today... he'll be out of town for the next 3 weeks. Thus, the follow up in a week has been fast forwarded.

I got up about about 20 minutes ago. I was 'zombiefied" by the time I got in last night from the ER and all night pharmacy. So I'm having a cup of coffee, staying in bed per doc orders till my appointment, have the tray and laptop with me, thus I believe I'm set up for the morning. LOL

See you all soon.
