New paranormal based reality series!?

So I start going through my emails tonight after work when I come across a winner.

Here's part of the email:

"Hi Chris,

I wanted to contact you to ask if you have any paranormal cases that you have worked on in the recent past or are currently working on with human-spirit activity where the clients / families want resolution in the situation beyond the documentation of activity in the home.

I have been tasked to find cases for a new paranormal-based reality TV show for a major network that focus’s the series cast/team work in helping individuals and families resolve paranormal activity so they can live in peace. We already have a team / cast for the show that has many years of paranormal investigation experience on both the technical side and the intuitive side. "

It came with an attachment including a casting call letter and some other forms.

Could this be for real!? The email was sent from a David Harvey, Associate producer.

Has anyone ever heard of him?
