Mom
Posted by dancingwater - 30 Nov 2011 23:42

Hey all,

As some of you know I have been taking care of my mom for a few years now and very recently she began talking to dead relatives. My dad, her mom, her brother, etc. Now these people have all crossed over so I know they are not ghosts and even though I am a 'sensitive' I don't feel them at all. I am just wondering if this is part of her dementia or if they are visiting her in preparation for her to pass away. I am not afraid or anything like that, just curious if anyone else has had any experience along those lines.

Thanks so much for being here, I know ya'll wont think I'm crazy! (Not much anyway)

==========

Re: Mom
Posted by amoonwolfe - 01 Dec 2011 05:19

---

dancingwater, you're far from crazy. You are at a difficult crossroads for both yourself and your Mom. Please give her "permission" to release your hand and take hold of her Mom and Dad to ease her passage.I was 3 months pregnant with my son when my Mom passed due to terminal Cancer. Be at peace with the process and your Mom will do the same. My prayers go with you both.

==========

Re: Mom
Posted by Gill_ians - 01 Dec 2011 13:49

I am so sorry to hear about your mom, you will both be in my thoughts and prayers. Although I am a sensitive, there have been times that other people I know have had visitations from people who have passed on while I was in the room and I felt nothing... I think your father may have just been spending his energy on helping your mom. Best of luck to the both of you during this difficult time.

==========