Could use your intuitive impressions

Posted by Tresses Of Nephthys - 23 Feb 2012 21:01

Hi guys, I'm just putting these pics out there to see if there's anything anyone can pick up. This is the property across the street from me, which has a rather sad story attached to it which I will pass on later on. I have noticed this week something odd--even after five years of living across the street and peering upon this land every day, I have never noticed this clearing where clearly there was supposed to be a driveway. The stones of the stone wall even curve in to make what I would call a flower bed, which is also something I've never noticed. I understand it's winter and the underbrush is dead, but I still practically gasped this morning taking out my trash because this gap in the stone wall is directly across from the end of my driveway. If there had been a driveway there it would almost look like a continuation of my driveway. It seemed to be inviting me to walk up. So I snapped some pictures.

==========

Re: Could use your intuitive impressions

Posted by Peek-A-Boo - 25 Feb 2012 19:25

---

is there a crystal dowsing? can a pendulum with a crystal be substituted?

==========

Re: Could use your intuitive impressions

Posted by amoonwolfe - 26 Feb 2012 17:21

---

this appears to be an old fashioned Laneway. Look for the remains of a barn partially built into a mound or small hillock. It had a stone partial basement. The locale seems strangely familiar to me. You will also find an arrowhead or two in your explorations. I am getting the name John or Johnson somehow attached to this place.

==========

Re: Could use your intuitive impressions

Posted by Peek-A-Boo - 26 Feb 2012 19:09

---

your making me miss Massachusetts, went to BU and lived in a small town outside of Wrentham, Sheldonville, loved it!!!! The history, the small town life and the atmosphere like no place else I have lived

==========

Re: Could use your intuitive impressions

Posted by amoonwolfe - 26 Feb 2012 20:01

I'd love to break out my mini rods and let you looose with them-after a little practice with them!

==========

Re: Could use your intuitive impressions
Posted by Tresses Of Nephthys - 26 Feb 2012 21:48

_____

@ amoonwolf: YESSSS! That would be awesome. And I was getting John too, and the name Mark for some reason. There is a barn behind our house but I don't know about across the lane.

@Paula: No kidding! I live about 20 mins away from Wrentham and also used to live near BU when I was going to Emerson.

==========

Re: Could use your intuitive impressions
Posted by Peek-A-Boo - 26 Feb 2012 22:03

_____

there was a place in No. Attleboro called Rattys, best burger w mushrooms and chowder ever. Went there a few years ago and it was gone I did a psych internship at Walpole, met Albert DeSalvo and did shopping in the gift shop, everything was made by inmates

==========

Re: Could use your intuitive impressions
Posted by Tresses Of Nephthys - 12 Mar 2012 00:00

_____

Ok so I had a chance to do a little more research today. All made possible I believe because I bought the bulbs I wanted to plant across the street. I haven't been able to find much until today, suddenly all kinds of information came up.

Amoonwolf and I both came up with the name John. His name is actually Jon Hanshus. He died in 1989. Based on some of the information I found on the property and his parents I believe he was a teenager when he died. His parents are about 64/65 years old. I haven't been able to locate an obituary for him yet. Maybe he will let me find one eventually.

He prompted me today to draw a picture for him. He tells me his parents have a picture of him like it, of him in his basketball uniform. He was either the number 16 or 16 years old. He says he had wavy red hair and freckles and a shaggy haircut like Larry Bird. I think people teased him and he may have had a nickname based on his lanky frame.

Here's my picture of him:

==========

Re: Could use your intuitive impressions
Posted by Peek-A-Boo - 12 Mar 2012 00:14

_____

Angela, OMG, what can you not do? Your talents blow my mind

==========

Re: Could use your intuitive impressions
Posted by Tresses Of Nephthys - 12 Mar 2012 11:24

_____

HA plenty! But I'm always willing to learn.

==========