Well, I have to admit. When I first saw this I went into it thinking "Oh this must be a branch or rock which you just can't see in the dark".

So I went to enhance the brightness, fully expecting to see in the detail the hidden object which previously was not visible. But, much to my surprise no such object exists.

This is about as close to some kind of a full body vapor or possibly paranormal entity which I have seen.

This is the bottom area with the entity, brightness enhanced and zoomed.

It was taken at the Hollenback cemetery in Wilkes-Barre, PA on 5/14/11. Back in 1972 the whole area was flooded causing the displacement of many bodies. When recovered, if they were not identified they were buried in a mass grave on the grounds.

Time to go back with some more gear.

You need a IR camera, and perhaps a full spectrum DVR.

And perhaps some EVP and EMF detectors.

We plan on going back this weekend but we don't have that kind of money. We'll try some EVP's again. I did get some but they were highly geared toward my brothers questions. We don't have an emf detector. I ordered a small IR camera but it hasn't come yet.
