Strange figure on picture - any thoughts?

Posted by spookydave - 12 Jan 2012 21:30

This pic was taken on an investigation at Kits Coty House which is the name for a neolithic burial chamber off Bluebell Hill in the county of Kent in the UK. Circumstances are that someone took a pic and one of our crew saw something in the glare of the flash. Another member shot their camera immediately in the direction indicated and the resultant form appeared.

I know what I can see and I'm fairly sure I know what it is, but I may be influenced by my knowledge of the area, so I'm asking for some impartial thoughts please.

Thanks very much

SpookyDave

I think it's because there is more exposure to different venues now so the numbers seem to be high but I am sure it was always high just we never had the means to be infested by it

I see a figure kneeling with perhaps a cape or hood on? Although, its kind of hard for me to say definitively as I don't know the area..certainly does seem to have a human shape to it.

Great image! But I don't get anything from it.

See, I don't like Tim Tebow because his "morals" areforcing his religion down everyones throat, but more importantly, he uses his "morals" to support an organization that openly hates.

But I must just be "jealous" because disliking someone has nothing to do with their character and that their claim to fame is being a white Christian on TV. Nope. Just "jealous".

Thanks Spookycute (gr8 name by the way). I too see a kneeling figure holding some object, possibly a weapon. It makes sense in context to the location and in the original digital pic (which has mysteriously vanished)you can see some of the team and in propotion, the figure must be kneeling. Or it could be an ET as once suggested.

Oh, and I'm sure Tim whatsit is really a lovely guy.

Thanks Norman. I must say, we viewed the image as soon as it was taken and I for one felt overwhlemed and extremely priviliged to be in presence of such an ancient presence.
