I know its a long video, but if you stare at it long enough I guess you can see stuff moving.

Was a very uneventful investigation. But that's not a bad thing! Actually they had recently mowed and fixed up part of the cemetery where previously there was some darkness. We're thinking perhaps it may have brought peace there for a while. Although towards the back there is an area that's still so very overgrown. Its a shame that people would allow it to get so bad. You can not even see most of the grave markers.

It was starting to get dark when the camera was turned on. The reason you're seeing the discoloration is becuase the InfraRed is starting to kick in due to the low light levels. The two individuals in the shot are myself and the sensitive Maria.

Its strange to see the different colors due to the heat levels. It looks as though I'm wearing a lighter colored shirt when in reality I'm wearing a black t-shirt.
