New moon/Year of the Dragon

Posted by TressesOfNephthys - 24 Jan 2012 19:27

_____

I know I should have posted this YESTERDAY but alas, here we go.

On January 23rd the new moon cycle coincided with the Chinese new year. This year is the year of the Dragon, which is considered to be the luckiest year of the Chinese Zodiac and also the only animal of lore. The Dragon represents prosperity, good fortune, protection and heavenly blessings.

The new moon is also a time of new beginnings. It is a time where we reflect on actions of the past but leave them where they belong--in the past. It is the time to start off with a clean slate, to plant seeds and watch them grow.

This time is a powerful time for achievement and for setting plans in motion. If you have had a goal in mind for sometime, now is the time to act. Time to clean out the closets and start everything anew. If weather permits, open up the windows and get some fresh air in. Remember, this is a time for YOU to act upon your dreams and goals. The universe can only provide the fertile soil, you must provide the seed.

==========

Re: New moon/Year of the Dragon

Posted by TressesOfNephthys - 25 Jan 2012 01:25

_____

Oh I think my son is a Rabbit, this ought to be interesting.

RABBIT

People born of the year of the Rabbit are good at getting themselves out of trouble. They are neat and tidy and family oriented. They are not fans of being alone. They often bottle up emotions rather than releasing them, which leads to high stress levels. Make sure to get rid of things that cause stress before it comes to harm your health. It is hard to tell what a rabbit is thinking as they are often expressionless. Rabbits are also considered bright, intelligent, has an interest in worldly things and has a sense for fashion.

==========