the refraction of light feels different, hugging the sweater and going toward the gentleman. I got a soothing feeling from it the moment I saw it

Not only do you have the balloon, but also all the different reflective surfaces in the home there. I agree it's an odd picture.

This is a reflection from the sun outside hitting a window pane behind the camera. I've seen these before. You can see how the reflection goes all the way onto the back wall of the kitchen.
