Updates forum?

I figure that, like me, there are members here who have, at times, limited computer time. However, I would greatly like to update those who care about me here on what I am up to from time to time when I have the spare moment to.

Can we gat at least a forum topic for that?

I know I consider all my friends and family here, my brothers and sisters in beliefs, and want to let you all know from time to time that I am well, especially with just coming into my abilities and attracting all kinds of entities to me. I figure that you all would like to know if I was to be dealing with something that might cause me harm, and I know I would be worried about many of you as well.

Please, for now, know that I am well, in any case, and know where to find you if I should need help.

Blessed Be, kirlybab
