Mansfield Reformatory Event / Your stories

Posted by CleParanormal - 11 Jan 2012 04:06

Hello!

My group members and I are hosting an event at Mansfield Reformatory in May and not only do we have one spot open, but we would love to hear about your experiences of the building. See our event at www .facebook.com/events/227723273972397/

Also you can contact us on here or our email

If I had been in the area guys, I would be going. I didn't grow up far from there.

Steven,

Do you have any stories or info that you have learned or experienced about the reformatory?

No, I moved out of Ohio in '87.

Consider using a good camera on your investigation [only a suggestion]. You guys are already well aware that digital point and shoot cameras produce orbs which almost never amount to anything. A decent dslr with off camera flash would yield more a accurate photo if a particular spirit wants to be in the photo. You could even use film. If there is an existing light source, you may not even need to use flash; you could shoot long exposures instead if the conditions are right. Just my 2 cents.

Have a great time out there guys.
